

GETTING READY . . . Timmy and his dog, Skippy, show excitement as they prepare for a fishing trip. Fishing has become one of Timmy's favorite hobbies.

Timmy Faces World Despite Handicaps

Little Tommy Cason looks like he might have stepped out of the pages of Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn. He has fair hair, blue eyes, freckles and a good disposition. He loves fishing, camping, and romping with his dog, Skippy. However, Timmy's world is much different than that of Huck Finn. Timmy was born congenitally handicapped. He had no wrists or thumbs. His arms will never grow to their proper length.

BECAUSE HE still has no thumbs he can't open a door. This often makes him suffer from claustrophobia.

Ten days after Timmy was born he was admitted to Orthopaedic Hospital in Los Angeles—a Community Chest agency—on his doctor's recommendation.

Some months later the first in a long series of complicated operations and transplants took place, with long periods of physical therapy treatments in between.

SINCE THEN, 11½-year-old Timmy, who lives at 20121 Dalton Ave., has had 12 surgical operations on his arms and legs.

To give Timmy wrists, specialists have had to use his fibula bone (the outer and smaller bones below the knee). When the bones were grafted to his wrists specialists also inserted wires to give support until the graft had taken.

To correct his back curvature, Timmy had to wear a cast for a year. The cast was removed last year and Timmy was ordered by his doctor to swim daily to strengthen his back.

THIS ENABLED Timmy to join in more activities with other children. He is currently active in the Boy Scouts and is reportedly doing "very well" in fifth grade at school.

Timmy has two sisters, aged 14 and 7.

His mother, Mrs. Kay Cason, says that without the assistance from the Chest-supported hospital, Timmy would not have been able to live a nearly normal life.

"We could never afford such specialized surgery," she said. "The Orthopaedic Hospital and its staff have performed a wonderful service to our Timmy."

IN THE PAST two years, from the Torrance area alone, 112 children have been treated at the Orthopaedic Hospital. In addition to this service another 308 children attended Children's Hospital and some 213 children received treatment at the hospital's out-patient clinic.

The Community Chest's United-Way Appeal also supports 15 hospitals, clinics and health centers, 35 child-care services, 57 services to combat family breakdown, 45 youth service organizations to guide and train youth, and 17 national, regional, and state agencies which give services to the Los Angeles Area.

This year the Chest will appeal for $11.5 million to help support these various agencies. The campaign will be formally launched Oct. 18 in an impressive ceremony at the Los Angeles City Hall.
